Introduction

Leave ripples, take memories

The steel-grey lakes, meandering waters and tranquil canals of Ireland's inland waterways create a rich tapestry of pastoral landscapes, stately homes, archaeological remains and sleepy towns.

Hours can stand still or fly by as you explore these water trails. You become a master of your own destiny when you take a barge, boat or canoe on these glistening waters. Suddenly you are the skipper with the freedom to decide where to go, when to stop and what to visit.

From the stately splendour of the Shannon, the antiquities of the Erne to the lush valleys of the Barrow, when you embark on a trip along Ireland's waterways, hundreds of kilometres of fascinating waterscape unfold before your very eyes.

Serving as an aquatic playground for boaters, canoeists, kayakers and anglers alike, all you need is time to enjoy its splendour, in whatever way you choose.

Gathered together in this publication is the navigational and practical information that will help you to plan a voyage, or enjoy a visit to Ireland's Inland Waterways.

Lower Bann Navigation

Navigable from Lough Neagh to the sea at the Barmouth, the Lower Bann Navigation is a veritable paradise for recreational activity. With only five locks, rustic stretches of open water allow for leisurely cruising along its historic plains.

“The boat rides forward where the line slants back. The oars in their locks go round and round”

Setting, Seamus Heaney

Lower Bann Navigation

Lower Bann Navigation is a popular area for watersports, angling and cruising. Careful zoning ensures that all activities are conducted with safety and enjoyment in mind. Along the lingering passages of the river, rowing and canoeing are available through a number of active clubs. For adrenaline seekers, waterskiing, power boating and jet skiing are practised in dedicated zones and, in several areas, lessons are offered to novices.

If tranquil beauty and majestic rock formations are more in line with your thinking, take a trip to sea to visit the attractions of the spectacular nearby Causeway Coast, including its picturesque villages and dotted islands. The Giant's Causeway is Northern Ireland's only UNESCO World Heritage Site and is located close to the Lower Bann Navigation. Seemingly carved by the hands of giants, the resultant topography is rich and steeped in drama and history. The accessible Mountsandel Fort outside Coleraine is the earliest known human settlement in Ireland at 7,000 years old.

As well as being sited near some impressive geological centrepieces, the Lower Bann Navigation traverses an area of scenic beauty and environmental interest. The river basin is teeming with migrant waterfowl, waders and nesting birds. The river itself provides a conduit for migrating eels and salmon as well as a habitat for coarse fish species. The sand dunes at Portstewart near where the river enters the sea are managed as a National Trust nature reserve.

Peaceful strolls through ancient woods, jaunts along glassy canal banks and forays into forests – the Lower Bann offers some great short walks that whisk you through centuries of history and right to the edge of Lough Neagh.

On the North Coast, a short distance from the Lower Bann Navigation, you can enjoy a number of thrilling spectacles. For example, the North West 200 motorcycle race is recognised as one of the premier road racing events in Europe, or look to the skies for the NI International Airshow.

Access to the Lower Bann Navigation

A number of slipways are available for use on the Lower Bann Navigation (see page 10 for details). Boats wishing to access the Lower Bann Navigation must comply with local authority guidelines, where applicable.

Mast Lowering Facility

There is a mast lowering facility at Coleraine Marina.

Entrance from the Sea

The Lower Bann river is navigable from the sea at the Barmouth. Care should be taken at the entrance as in rough conditions there can be breaking waves. Coleraine Harbour Commissioners can be contacted on +44 (0)28 7034 2012.

Whilst in this area use VHF Ch12 and Admiralty Chart Number 2499.

Zoning

Specific activities should be undertaken in the appropriate designated zone. For example, a “No Wash Zone” is suitable for activities that do not create a wash such as angling, rowing, canoeing etc. A wash is the flow of water behind every craft powered by an engine, which causes a disturbance in the water. For further information on zoning, please refer to the Lower Bann Navigational Guide on the website www.waterwaysireland.org

Erne System

Once a trade route for the Vikings, untouched by modern commercial navigation, the Erne System remains a truly unspoilt paradise for boating enthusiasts, anglers and watersports fanatics. With so many moorings on islands along the waterway, complete isolation is possible on the Erne System.

“And watch the ship sail up or down, the red flag at her stern — Adieu to these, adieu to all the winding banks of Erne!”

The Winding Banks of Erne, William Allingham

The Erne System has its share of dramatic landscapes, island-dotted expanses and historical treasures including: the monastic round tower at Devenish Island; the ruined remains of Tully Castle; the picture-postcard image of Enniskillen's 400-year-old medieval castle and the National Trust's Castle Coole and Crom Estate all vying for your attention.

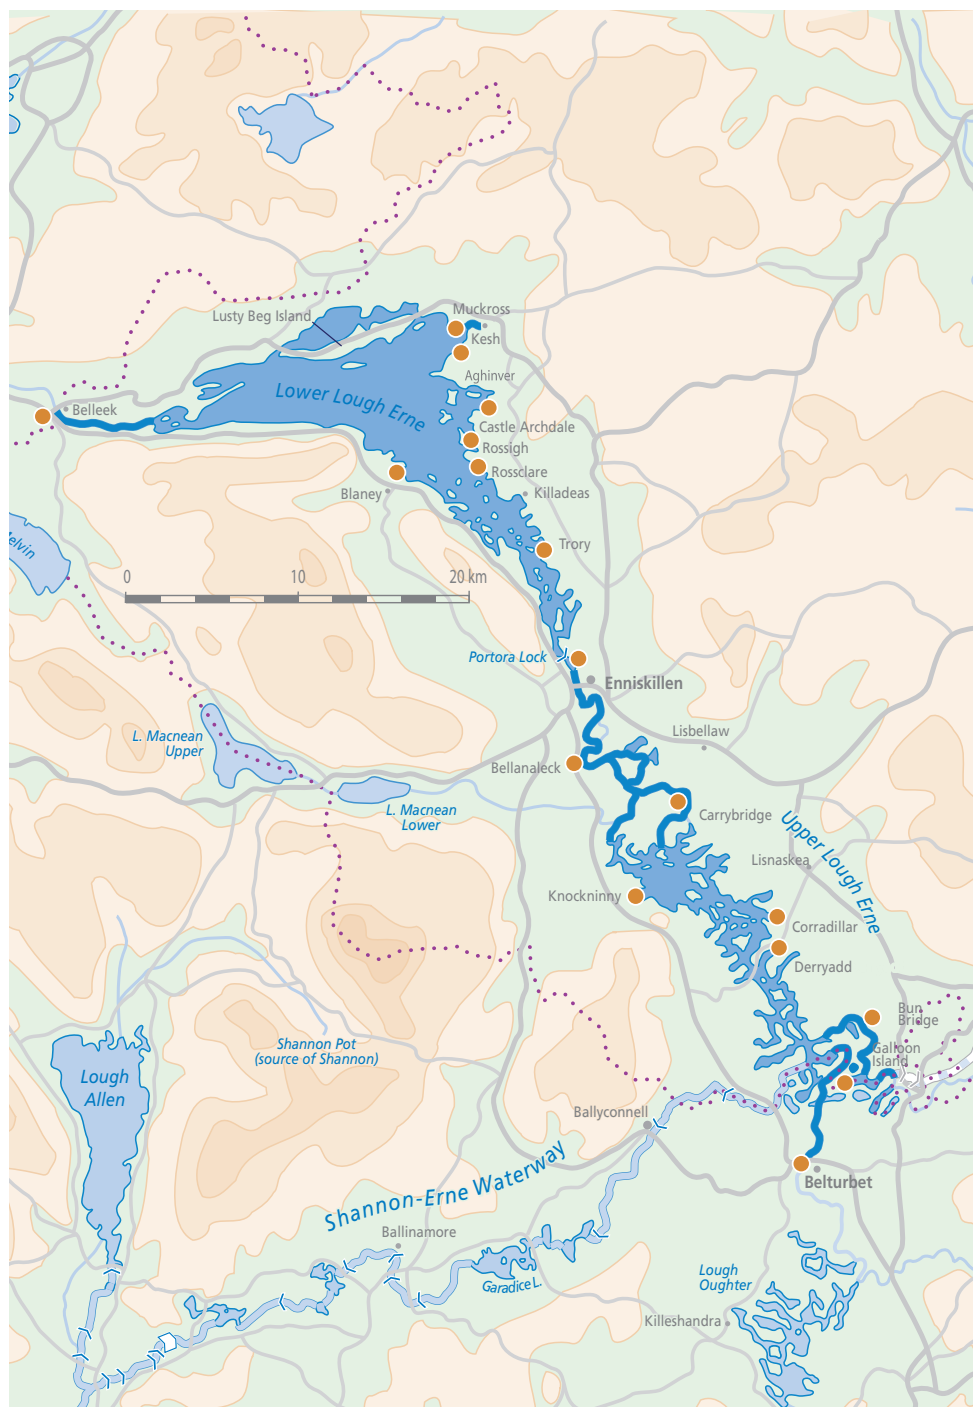

With a number of hire companies along its length, the Erne System is a boater's dream. Cruisers are readily available for exploring Upper Lough Erne, or for taking in the magnificent mountain scenery that grips the shoreline of Lower Lough Erne. You'll find a world of entertainment awaiting you in the many towns and villages that spring up along your route. In Enniskillen, the local theatre even has its own mooring just metres from the door, as does the shopping centre, armed with everything you'll need for your waterway getaway.

When it comes to watersports, Lough Erne certainly has it covered. The Enniskillen Blueway Water Activity Zone sits just beside the Erneside Footbridge, and brings a whole host of watersports to an urban location. Try some kayaking, canoeing or stand-up paddleboarding. The Erne Water Taxi and Erne Boat Hire can also be found at the zone.

If you'd prefer to discover the secrets of the waterway on your own, you can use the designated Lough Erne Canoe Trail. Both leisure and competitive sailing are plentiful on the Lower Lough, with the Lough Erne Yacht Club based at Killadeas. Rowing is another popular activity with the local Enniskillen Royal Boat Club operating from their base at Portora.

Climb to Magho Viewpoint for an unparalleled vista across Lower Lough Erne then unwind as you explore the many castles, museums and traditional craft shops that Fermanagh has to offer. Ride horses, hit a few golf balls or simply relax, enjoying the scenery and wildlife as time passes you by.

Shannon-Erne Waterway

Flanked by lush riverside pastures, the Shannon-Erne Waterway is 63km of river, lake and still-water canal. Between Leitrim Village and just north of Belturbet, the Shannon-Erne Waterway links the two great waterways on the island, the historical Erne System and the colourful Shannon Navigation.

*“Come away, O human child!
To the waters and the wild”*

The Stolen Child, WB Yeats

At the heart of the Shannon-Erne Waterway is its tranquillity. Relax and restore along its serene waters, all the while aware that untold activity is only ever a stone's throw away. In the midst of carefree cruising there are an increasing number of gastropubs so you can sit back, unwind and enjoy the best of Irish cuisine. In addition to boating there is a fringing of mountains for the adventurous. Anglers will also find a paradise of fishing with locals more than willing to impart their wisdom on where the best spots are.

Cruisers and barges can move freely along the Shannon-Erne Waterway, mooring in some of the fully serviced public marinas found along its length. Sixteen locks are managed electro-hydraulically by a smart card that allows ease of passage through the locks. Several boat hire companies offer barges and cruisers for easy weekend trips or laidback week-long journeys. This popular option means anyone can visit the Shannon and the Erne easily.

Re-opened in 1994, this waterway has unlocked a countryside few had ever seen and over the past two decades this serene stretch of water has grown in popularity. An abundance of history and folklore are found at each meander and as you travel these still waters, you will be disturbed only by native swans, otters and kingfishers. Canoeing and rowing are also a common sight with clubs based in Belturbet and Carrick-on-Shannon. Taking full advantage of the waterway, canoeists can use the many slipways to gain access to its peaceful passage. The Shannon-Erne Blueway, a multi-activity trail for paddlers, walkers and cyclists, provides endless scope for families and friends to enjoy.

As you journey along this symbolic link between southern and northern Ireland, it won't take long for you to be enchanted by the wonderful array of fascinating history, welcoming villages and delicious eateries.

Shannon Navigation

The Shannon Navigation is a treasure waiting to be discovered. As Ireland's longest river, the Shannon's banks and lakes were once a major commercial waterway bustling with colour and trade. Today, the Shannon Navigation continues to boast busy harbours, peaceful bays, lively villages and fascinating historical sites.

*"I thought I saw Lough Allen's bank in the valleys' down below
It was my lovely Leitrim where the Shannon water's flow"*

Lovely Leitrim, Larry Cunningham

You'll be amazed at the range of activities along the Shannon Navigation, all set against a backdrop of stunning natural scenery. Harbours and marinas in villages welcome all kinds of watersports and boating enthusiasts. With thriving boat-hire companies and activity centres scattered along the water's edge, everything you need for your water adventure is located around each flowing bend.

If it's a tranquil escape you're looking for, why not explore the Blueways. The Shannon Blueway has 100km of paddling trails from the foot of Lough Allen to Lanesborough. In addition to the stunning paddling trails, enjoy an incredible walking and cycling trail between Drumshanbo and Battlebridge featuring Acres Lake floating boardwalk. The Lough Derg Blueway offers a series of 21 shoreline paddling trails stretching from the vibrant town of Portumna to the birthplace of Brian Boru in Killaloe.

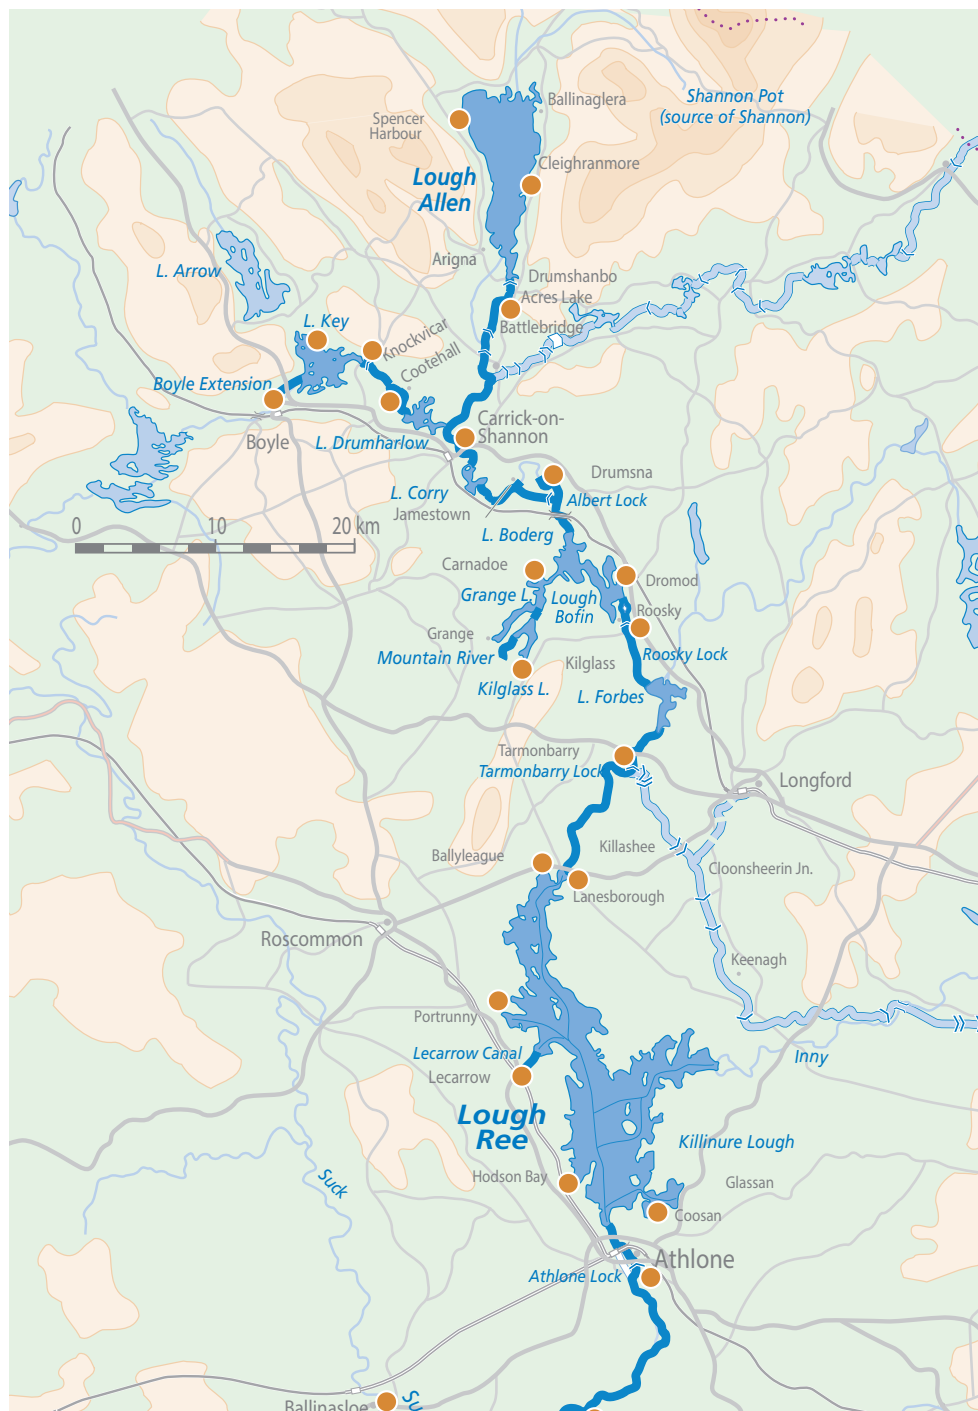

For anglers and golfers there are abundant spots and lush courses throughout the countryside just waiting for you to arrive for a relaxing day of practising your skills.

With many spectacular sights along the Shannon, discover the rich history along this ancient trail. From the sixteen-arch bridge at Shannonbridge, said to have been built against a feared Napoleonic invasion, to the 1,400-year-old settlement of Clonmacnoise with its round towers casting shadows over one of the oldest monastic communities in Europe, the River Shannon's stories run so deep you can almost feel them emanating from its surface.

If a day spent exploring the many towns and villages along the Shannon takes your fancy, moorings are readily available along the waterway. You'll be spoilt for choice as Irish music pubs and fine-dining restaurants and cafés are dotted along the banks.

To experience true community spirit and local culture, plan your visit around the many festivals and events held throughout the year that effectively capture the unique character of the area. Visit the Scarriff Harbour Festival and the Inisceiltra Festival of Arts, or one of the many music, sports and cultural events happening up and down the length of the Shannon.

Sarsfield Lock

Sarsfield Lock is operating on a seasonal service, from April to October, based on a tidal timetable with days and times.

The timetable is published on our website and in Marine Notice No. 12 of 2023.

Users are advised to book their passage by phoning the lock-keeper, preferably the day before travelling on +353 (0)87 797 2998

Only in exceptional circumstances will the lock gates be opened outside of the listed hours of operation.

Ardnacrusha Lock and Limerick

Ardnacrusha is a double lock managed by the ESB as part of the hydroelectric scheme on the Shannon. Water levels and currents between Ardnacrusha and Limerick can vary widely. Users are strongly advised not to travel on this stretch of waterway when more than one power station turbine is running. This is very dangerous due to the increased velocity of water. Increased water flows are also to be expected following spells of heavy rainfall.

Always consult the Marine Notices before travelling, which are available on www.waterwaysireland.org

Before travelling to Ardnacrusha please contact the lock-keeper for details of opening times and to book your passage

+353 (0)87 997 0131 or

Royal Canal

The Royal Canal winds its 146km journey from Dublin to the Shannon. Rising through a series of locks, it reaches the summit level near Mullingar and descends to its destination in the magnificent cut-stone Richmond Harbour. The route provides a linear corridor of unspoilt countryside speckled with examples of the late-eighteenth century industrial archaeology that herald its heyday.

*“And the auld triangle went jingle jangle,
All along the banks of the Royal Canal”*

The Auld Triangle, Dominic Behan

The Royal Canal's diverse route navigates from the heart of the capital city to the heart of Ireland. Whether by boat or simply on foot, you'll have ample opportunity to revel in it all.

Work on constructing the canal was completed in 1817. Initially an important hub for trade, by the 1950s the canal had fallen into disrepair and was officially closed in 1961.

Following extensive restoration work, the Royal Canal was re-opened for navigation in 2010 reigniting enthusiasm for the historic trail. As a result of the Royal Canal's colourful history and passage through Ireland's Ancient East, this waterway truly is a snapshot of the past. Several bridges date back more than 200 years and there are buildings in Abbeyshrule that can be traced back to 1200 AD.

Legend and myth abound along each leafy corridor including stories such as the haunted Bridge at the 13th Lock. According to legend, in years gone by, boatmen would never moor there overnight.

Today, cruising the Royal Canal is a wonderfully serene experience. Draped in beauty, peace and tranquillity, a trip down the Royal Canal - be it by paddle or engine - is a trip into another world.

Public Mooring

The Royal Canal Greenway provides a 130km walking and cycling trail from Maynooth to Cloondara where the Royal meets the Shannon.

The Royal Canal is heaving with wildlife, and eagle-eyed nature watchers could be fortunate enough to spot herons, swans, otters, badgers and foxes amidst the restful waters and colourful hedgerows.

Of course, that's just on the surface, beneath the water a biosphere of life exists with roach proving to be one of the most popular fish, along with pike, tench and bream.

This makes angling a very popular activity along the canal with all levels of experience finding excellent conditions.

Wherever the Royal Canal takes you, lose yourself in the lingering, leafy surrounds of this industrial grande dame's still waters.

Grand Canal

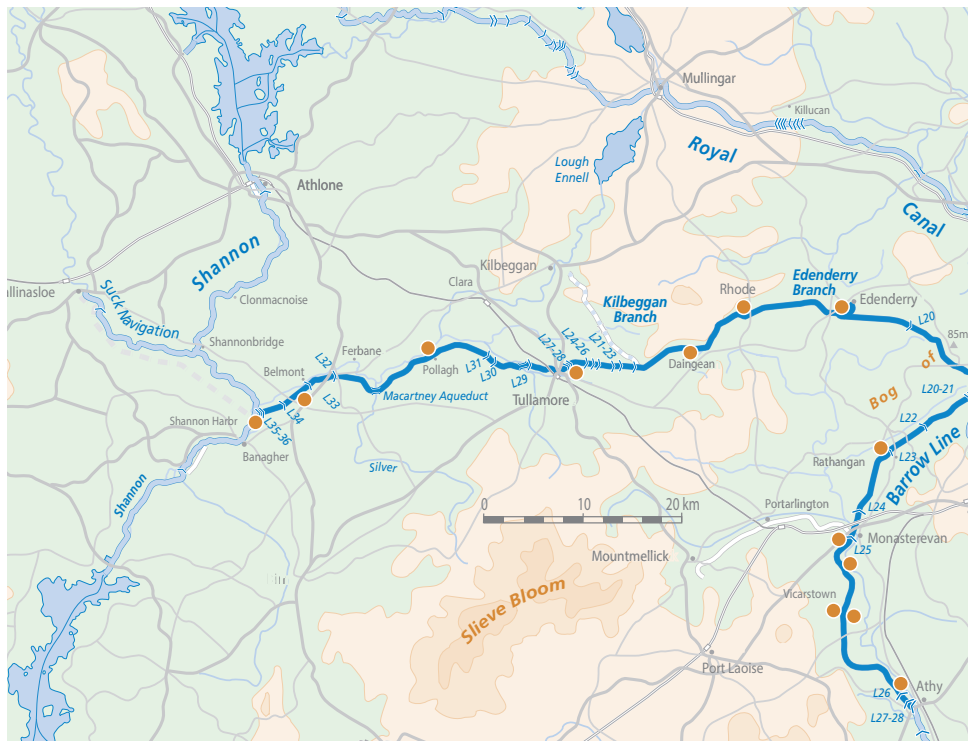

Built in the 19th century, the Grand Canal developed from an important trade route to a relaxing haven. Connecting the capital city westwards with the River Shannon, this genteel, old engineering marvel winds through the centre of Dublin, on towards fertile farmlands, charming villages and past the tumble-down remnants of the midlands' historic past.

“Fantastic light looks through the eyes of bridges – And look! a barge comes bringing from Athy”

Lines Written on a Seat on the Grand Canal, Dublin, Patrick Kavanagh

Grand Canal

The Grand Canal was completed at the turn of the 19th century to connect Dublin to the Shannon. Though initially a strategic commercial trail, advances in transportation meant the last cargo barge passed through its bloom-filled corridors in 1960. Today, as a result of restoration work this waterway is well-frequented by users of the canal's bountiful amenities.

The canal enters the heart of Dublin through Inchicore, where flocks of mute swans breeze silently along the still waters each autumn. The city canal stretches provide close access to all the culture and buzz Dublin has on offer and travelling by boat allows you to change from hectic to rustic at the drop of a hat. Rent a barge, canoe or kayak from one of the providers located along the route. Or for an alternative activity, you could try the thrill of cable-wakeboarding in the cosmopolitan Dublin Docklands. Regardless of what craft you choose, drifting through scenic villages and by abundant fishing spots will relax your mind and restore your spirit.

Of course, the pleasant towpaths of the 117km Grand Canal Way allow walkers to enjoy this mighty waterway. Punctuated by the locks that characterise the technology of its golden years, the canal is a portrait of a time when the waterway affected all life surrounding its banks.

The Barrow Line links the main line of the Grand Canal with the River Barrow at Athy. The line cuts through waterlogged bogs and grassy farmland in Kildare and Laois before turning towards Athy to join the Barrow's peaty tide.

The Grand Canal's backdrop of shallow marshes and rolling landscapes, sings with birds and other wildlife. Whether on-board a boat or alongside the canal, kingfishers, herons and even otters can be spotted dipping in and out of its tranquil waters. The Grand Canal is also a major angling destination and home to numerous competitions annually.

Regardless of how you traverse its waters, the contrasting urban intensity and rural expanses of the Grand Canal ensure your eyes will never tire of the splendour that engulfs it.

Plus, if it's a leisurely pace or a secluded spot you're looking for along its banks, calm and relaxation is a guaranteed find.

Barrow Navigation

Woodland valleys, ancient hinterlands and strings of quaint villages form the backdrop to the Barrow Navigation. Since earliest times, this waterway was seen as a strategic military and commercial highway. Navigable for 65km between the historic Athy, Co. Kildare, and sleepy St Mullins, Co. Carlow, it is now a pleasure playground.

*“The third, the goodly Barow, which doth hoorde.
Great heaps of Salmons in his deepe bosome:
All which long sundred, doe at last accord”*

The Faerie Queene, Edmund Spencer

One of the best ways to experience the Barrow's enchanting journey is by boat. The river's waters and backwaters are a relatively undiscovered gem among the great inland pleasure cruising waterways of Ireland. Rising in the Slieve Bloom Mountains, the river flows north easterly linking the Grand Canal with the tidal waters of the Barrow estuary. As Ireland's second longest river, you'll encounter a variety of landscapes and wherever you go you will never be short of a place to moor.

Take a voyage of discovery as you uncover thousands of years of Irish history in mere days. The dolmen at Brownshill is Europe's largest portal tomb, dating between 4000 and 3000 BC. Next to lush farmlands, the empty facades of old country houses evoke a time where life moved to the pace of the waterway. Graiguenamanagh's majestic 13th century Abbey of Duiske is located in the river's valley, while in Leighlinbridge you'll glide under the graceful 14th century arches of what is reputed to be the oldest functioning bridge in Europe.

For paddlers the Barrow offers ample opportunities for laid-back touring along the river or white water activity in the curved weirs around Clashganna. Junior and senior rowing is popular on the route and is provided by several rowing clubs. The Barrow Way consisting of towpaths, tracks and quiet roads from Robertstown to St Mullins, offers a chance to explore the beauty of the region by foot. This 100km walking trail provides a feast of cascading banks, chirping waterfowl and electric-coloured butterflies.

During midsummer the river truly takes on a life of its own with a host of annual music and arts festivals, regattas and carnivals. Noteworthy annual events include the Carlow Regatta in June, the Athy Bluegrass Music Festival in July and the Bagenalstown and Graiguenamangh River Festivals in August. Once you have exhausted all the possibilities, why not just enjoy what the Barrow has to offer. With its attractive setting, mountain views and wooded banks, there is no better place to let the weight of the world fall from your shoulders.

Entrance from the Sea

All boats entering the Barrow Navigation from the sea must travel via the estuary, which is under the authority of the Port of Waterford. It is a major commercial port and you are advised to contact the harbour master on +353 (0)51 874907 for information on navigating this channel.

The tidal navigation upstream from the railway bridge at New Ross to St Mullins comes under the authority of the Port of New Ross. It is also a busy port and you are advised to contact the harbour master on +353 (0)51 421303 for information on moorings, shipping traffic and tide tables.

Navigation Information

Waterways Ireland is the navigation authority for 1,000km of inland navigable waterways including the Lower Bann Navigation, Erne System, Shannon-Erne Waterway, Shannon Navigation, Royal Canal, Grand Canal and Barrow Navigation.

50

Each of these waterways has been made navigable under different authorities, at different times and as a result there will be variances between the waterway systems, such as the registration process, lock dimensions, the rules (bye-laws), the methods of operation and the services and facilities provided.

This section of the guide sets out what you need to be aware of before embarking on a voyage on Ireland's Inland Waterways.

Beginning your Voyage

You need to get permission from Waterways Ireland before bringing your boat onto the inland navigable waterways. Two craft management systems are in operation;

1) A Permit System operates on the Grand Canal, Royal Canal and Barrow Navigation.

2) A Registration System operates on the Shannon Navigation, Shannon-Erne Waterway and Erne System.

Waterways Ireland does not have a registration scheme on the Lower Bann.

1) Permits on Barrow Navigation, Grand Canal and Royal Canal

Boats on the Barrow Navigation, Grand Canal and Royal Canal must display a valid permit.

Permits are issued on the basis of a completed application form and subject to certain conditions. In order to apply for a permit you will be required to provide evidence of insurance (3rd party minimum). All permits are annual and are valid from 1st November to 31st October. and must be must be displayed clearly on your vessel.

There are four types of permits available, depending on your boating requirements.

Combined Mooring and Passage Permit (CMP) permits the holder to pass through locks and to moor at the same Public Mooring for up to five days in any calendar month. A CMP costs €126.

Non Residential Extended Mooring Permit (NR-EMP) permits the holder to moor in an allocated location for up to one year. A NR-EMP is non-residential and therefore cannot be used as a primary residence, however the holder is permitted to stay overnight for up to 90 days in any one year. A NR-EMP costs €278 which includes the cost of a CMP.

Residential Extended Mooring Permit (R-EMP) allows the holder to moor in one location for up to one year. Holders of a R-EMP have no limitation on the number of nights they may stay on board and are permitted to use their vessel as their primary residence. Waterways Ireland has 20 houseboat serviced mooring locations in Grand Canal Dock and 8 houseboat services mooring locations in Shannon Harbour, Co. Offaly which are all fully occupied. If you are interested in acquiring a R-EMP, please email inspectorate.athlone@waterwaysireland.org providing your name, address and contact number and your details will be added to a waiting list.

Visitor Permit is free and allows boats to enter the canal system and stay for up to 31 days. The permit can only be used once every calendar year. If you wish to apply for a visitor permit please complete the CMP application and include a note indicating the date of entry to the canal. The visitor permit will be valid for one month from this date.

For further information on permits please contact the Assistant Inspector of Navigation by email inspectorate.athlone@waterwaysireland.org or telephone +353(0)57 937 3406

2) Boat Registration on Erne System, Shannon-Erne Waterway and Shannon Navigation

All craft with an engine capacity in excess of 10bhp on the Erne System and 15bhp on the Shannon Navigation and the Shannon-Erne Waterway must be registered with the Waterways Ireland Inspectorate.

Registration is free and you can register by completing the online application form or by contacting the Inspectorate to request an application form.

Upon registering, you will be provided with a registration number that must be displayed in a prominent position on your boat. You need to inform Inspectorate immediately of any change in ownership. A system of mutual recognition is in place, so boats registered on the Erne System, the Shannon Navigation or the Shannon-Erne Waterway do not need to re-register when moving between these waterways.

Public Mooring Time Limit

The time limit for mooring at or in the vicinity of a Public Mooring on the Erne System is 48 hours with craft able to return after an absence of four hours. If you wish to stay in a location longer than the limit please contact the Lough Erne Warden or seek a private mooring.

On the Shannon Navigation and the Shannon-Erne Waterway the mooring limit is five consecutive days or a total of seven days in any one month during the period 1 April to 31 October.

Rules of the Waterways

Inspectorate

The Inspectorate of Navigation is responsible for enforcing the navigational bye-laws, maintaining a register of vessels and carrying out inspections of Waterways Ireland harbours and jetties to ensure that they are used and kept in a safe and responsible manner.

The Inspectorate is authorised to board craft, ask for and receive accurate information, impose fines, manage harbour moorings and order the removal of vessels from the navigations.

The Inspectorate frequently patrol the waterways by road and water, monitoring general boating practices. Any irresponsible behaviour or poor boatmanship is immediately brought to the attention of the owner of the craft. Craft speeding within speed restriction areas are similarly dealt with.

For any further information on navigating and boat queries, contact the Inspectorate by email inspectorate.athlone@waterwaysireland.org or telephone +353 (0)90 649 4232

Bye-laws

Bye-laws are the rules guiding how the waterways should be used. Waterways Ireland, through its Inspectorate, has responsibility for enforcing these navigational bye-laws. Six of the navigations have bye-laws while the Lower Bann has a voluntary code. Further information can be found on www.waterwaysireland.org

Wash and the Speed Limits

You are asked to consider the wash of your boat and its effect on others. All engine-powered boats create a wave of water, known as a wash, which flows outwards from the boat as it moves forward. Look behind you frequently to check the effect that your wash is having on other users. You are advised to reduce your speed in narrow channels to prevent bank erosion, damage to reed beds and destruction of birds' nests among bank habitats. Slow down where boats are moored, when approaching quays, jetties or locks or where water activities are taking place.

On the waterways speed limits are:

- 5 knots on specific sections of the Erne
- 6 km/h on the canals and lateral canals
- 11 km/h on the river sections of the Barrow
- 5 km/h in channel stretches on the Shannon-Erne Waterway

Speed limits/no wash areas are also in place on other sections of the waterways and are monitored by the Inspectorate.

Marine Notices

Marine Notices are issued by the Inspectorate to draw the attention of boat users to navigational issues such as high water levels, navigation works and closures, and to highlight potential areas of danger. They also remind boat users of their obligations and responsibilities under the Navigation Bye-laws. Marine Notices are published on our website www.waterwaysireland.org. If you would like to receive Marine Notices by email, please send a request to inspectorate.athlone@waterwaysireland.org

Maintenance Works

Maintenance works on the waterways are, where possible, carried out during the winter months i.e. 1 November to 17 March.

Before travelling you are advised to contact the Inspectorate or read the Marine Notices.

Smart Cards

Smart cards are used to operate the locks on the Shannon-Erne Waterway and the Shannon Navigation. They are also used to gain access to the service blocks and to use the facilities and pump-outs. Cards are available in either 10 units or 20 units. There is a card reader in each service block to enable users to check the number of units remaining on the smart cards.

Services use the following number of units:

- Locks: 1 unit (Shannon-Erne Waterway)
- Locks: 2 units (Shannon Navigation)
- Bridges: 2 units (Shannon Navigation)
- Pump-outs: 2 units
- Showers: 2 units
- Chemical Toilets: 2 units
- Washing Machines: 5 units
- Tumble Dryers: 5 units
- 2kwh Electricity: 1 unit

Smart cards can be purchased from the sellers listed on page 76 and cost 10 units - €6.35, 20 units - €12.70

Pump-outs

Pump-outs are provided to enable the safe and clean pumping out of boat effluent and thereby removing the pollution risk to our waterways. Pump-outs are operated by smart card.

Dry Docks

Waterways Ireland has a number of dry docks facilities which can be hired by members of the public for maintenance, repairs or inspection to private boats. To avail of this service, you can apply online at www.waterwaysireland.org

Winter Moorings

Winter Moorings are available at all Waterways Ireland's public jetties / harbours on the Shannon Navigation and Shannon-Erne Waterway only. The "Winter Mooring Period" commences on 1 November and ends on 31 March, both days inclusive. Charges as laid out in the Shannon Navigation Bye-laws, 1992 (S.I. No 80 of 1992) apply. If you wish to avail of this facility, you can apply online at www.waterwaysireland.org

Safety and Assistance

Lifejackets

The bye-laws state that boats should have suitable lifejackets for every adult and child on board. Waterways Ireland promotes the wearing of lifejackets by all users. See the Maritime Safety Act, 2005 for further information.

Age Restrictions

In the Republic of Ireland you must be at least 16 years of age to operate a personal water craft (PWC) and 12 years or over to operate a boat with more than a 5bhp engine.

Boat/Barge Transporters

There are many boat transporters based in the UK and Ireland who are experienced in shipping your boat safely to its destination. Details of boat transporters are available under the Navigation Section of our website www.waterwaysireland.org

Navigation Guides and Books

To assist you on your voyage, Waterways Ireland produces a range of Navigation Guides. To view a full range of publications, visit www.shopwaterwaysireland.org

Mechanics

A full listing is available on the Inland Waterways Association website www.iwai.ie

Fuel Points

Fuel is available from petrol stations in towns/ villages along the waterways.

Emergency Services

Dial 999 (and/or 112 in the Republic of Ireland) for all emergency services. If you require assistance on the water ask for the Coastguard.

Cruising Times

The tables below will provide you with an estimated cruising time (in hours) between locations on the waterways. They are intended as guidelines only. It usually takes 10-15 minutes to negotiate each lock although an experienced and energetic crew can manage the process in a fraction of this time. A number of variables will affect the time allowances; size of boat engine, average speed of 5mph or 8km/h and experience of crew.

Activities

The varied settings of the inland waterway network offer a playground of activity for water enthusiasts and landlubbers alike. For sheer exhilaration, watersports offer an unparalleled experience. Follow the canoe trails on the Erne and the Lower Bann or try kayaking on the tranquil stretches or white waters of the Barrow. If sailing takes your fancy, the Shannon and the Erne are excellent places to learn, while waterskiing and wakeboarding on the Erne, Lower Bann and Shannon will soon get your adrenaline pumping.

62 Offering an unrivalled taste of genuine Ireland, signposted long-distance walkways such as the Royal Canal Way, Barrow Way or Grand Canal Way allow walkers to discover a patchwork of diverse hinterlands. Pass through fertile farmlands, charming villages and the crumbling remnants of forts and castles along plentiful grassy embankments.

If two wheels are preferable to two legs, you can always cycle across the scenic and winding country roads or rustic forest paths surrounding many of the routes. Depending on the time of the year, the lengthy towpaths of the canals are also suitable for bicycle touring as a core activity or to take leisurely rides from boat to village. The new Royal Canal Greenway from Maynooth to Cloondara offers great new cycling opportunities.

Or for total relaxation, why not try casting a line into the still waters of the Royal and Grand Canal. Alternatively, faster river and lake networks such as the Lower Bann, the Barrow, the Shannon and the Shannon-erne offer diverse and well-stocked waters. These bountiful inland passages attract droves of game and coarse anglers yearly, particularly as there is no closed season for coarse or pike fishing. Brown trout, perch, tench, and bream are just a few of the species to be found, with the Lower Bann arguably home to some of the best sites for salmon and trout angling in Ireland.

If you are feeling competitive there are several annual angling festivals to choose from. Try your hand at the Fermanagh Classic Fishing Festival, Erne World Pike Fishing Classic, Edenderry Coarse Angling Gala, Royal Enfield Two-Day International Angling Festival and the Irish Wheelchair Association Lucan Fishing Competition. Specially designed fishing stands offering access to anglers with wheelchairs are available in a number of locations along the Grand and the Barrow.

With opportunities for all ages and abilities, get on the Blueways. Blueways are a series of safe and easy-to-use water and land based trails. Do the Blueway your way and choose to paddle, pedal or walk. The Blueways allow guided and unguided paddling along canals, lakes and rivers. With Blueway trails on the Shannon, Shannon-erne, Royal Canal and Lough Derg, you'll always find a new Blueway to experience.

Of course, after all that activity who could resist an opportunity to sample some of the delicious cafés and eateries available? Taste the food that goes from farm to fork as Ireland's natural larder is visible at every meander.

The information contained in the following pages will help you choose high octane fun or total relaxation. After all, wherever you go or whatever you choose to do, the options are endless.

DO IT YOUR WAY

66

A network of stunning trails running on or alongside Ireland's most idyllic lakes, canals and rivers. Taking you into the heart of her most unspoilt landscapes – by canoe, bike or on foot. Meander through inspiring, picturesque vistas and soak in the idyllic rural atmosphere, where life simply runs at a different pace.

Step back in time to castles, battles, heroes and kings; explore the vibrant, thriving modern arts and craft culture and get a taste of the new with innovative dining experiences that are sure to delight.

The Blueways offer a truly unique path into the lands surrounding some of Ireland's stunning waterways, allowing you experience a beautiful fusion of her past and present with a hint of the future to come.

BLUEWAY TRAILS

Create your own path and explore the Blueways, your way – along four key scenic trails, that will gently guide you on a unique journey through Ireland's hidden heartlands

- > Shannon Blueway
- > Lough Derg Blueway
- > Shannon-Erne Blueway

Paddling: Glide along by canoe, kayak or Stand-up-Paddleboard and experience our hidden heartlands from a truly unique perspective. Our Blueways have hundreds of kilometres of individual trails for avid paddlers to explore. And for those new to the blue, various guided paddles with experienced instructors can be booked.

67

Walking: Some of the trails can be experienced from the land too. From short and pleasant strolls to longer, more challenging hikes; take a digital detox and wrap yourself in nature on a waterside trail set against a backdrop of some of the most peaceful scenery on the island.

Cycling: Bring your own bike, hire one – or even hire an electric one – and pedal along some stretches of the beautiful Blueway trails and loops. It offers a unique opportunity to see some of Ireland's most idyllic lakes, canals and rivers on two wheels.

Get On

Whether its meandering down rivers on guided Canadian Canoes or enjoying the company of likeminded enthusiasts on guided walking tours – you won't be short of ways to get on the Blueways.

Get Off

From Restorative Yoga to Horseriding trails, Heritage Tours to Cruises, and adrenaline raising High Wires and Hovercrafting – out of the water, there's a whole host of new experiences, adventures and excursions waiting to be explored.
